Mayor Brown headed a delegaion which went over to Marlin vesterday and brought Davidson to Groesbeck, where friends pack-ed to overflowing the auditorium of the new courthouse which Limestone county contends is the best in the Southwest. It stands within a stone's throw of the little house which Davidson still owns and says he will always own, because it is the spot where widowed mother sewed for their living while Lynch herded sheep.

Scott Reed, county attorney, in-troduced Davidson as "one whom the people here have known since boyhood and they believe in him because they know him."

Reed told of Davidson's long upward struggle against hardship. "And now they say Lynch is rich." said Reed. REPUBLICANS OF LIMESTONE COUNTY TO HOLD PRIMARY

Special to the Sun. Groesbeck, Texas, June 9.—Republicans of Limestone county will have no active county ticket in the race this year, but expect to hold a Republican primary at as many boxes as possible, according to James Smith, of Groesbeck, chairman of the Limestone County Republican executive committee.

, The organization in Limestone county is supporting the regular state organization headed by R. B. Creager, Mr. Smith says, and he anticipates little support of the Wurzbach faction of the party in this county.

The state Republican primary will be held this year throughout the state, Mr. Smith says, and Limestone county will endeavor to get out as large Republican vote as possible. The Republican leaders of the county hope at a later date to en-ter candidates for every county political office, but see no likeli hood of it this year.

Your Advertising Dollars ' In Expensive Whirlwinds

Seed Cast to a Whirlwind Will Give an Unknown Scatter Distribution But That's No Way To Grow a Crop

Concentrate Your Advertising

Plant your advertising seeds in abundant, concentrated local circulation—your newspapers that go and are read in all of the homes—and you will reap an abundant harvest.

Your newspapers have effective concentrated local circulation because they enjoy reader-confidence and reader-interest. Their influence and standing constitute the fulcrum of which advertising is the lever.

They are always ready to give immediate distribution of your message to a definite and known list of thousands of paid subscribers at the lowest cost.

To Keep On Selling "em" You Must Keep on Telling "em."

Immediate Distribution

Your newspaper circulation means immediate distribution of your store or business news to an intelligent, anxious a n d waiting public, who is eager to read the news and advertising contents of their home paper.

They appreciate the fact that the advertising columns contain as interesting news as to be found in the news columns.

Every advertisement in the newspaper has the morale and prestige of the paper behind it, a medium that the people respect, want and pay for.

Much money is spent each day in building up and maintain ing such a valuable medium for your advertising.

"Keep Everlastingly at it" is what counts.

The Power Behind Your Advertising

So that you may know what makes your newspaper such a valuable medium of enlightenment to its thousands of paid subscribers, and why its advertising columns are so valuable and profitable, we are reproducing below the news services, news features, syndicated features, local features, ad vertising features and affiliation with State, National and International organizations that give their services and influence to the Daily Sun and the Semi-Weekly Morning Light.
